ALEJANDRA LOPEZ

Alejandra López is an artist born in Elche, Spain, and based in The Hague. Her practice seeks to question how visual, and material languages have an effect on the way we feel. Thinking through drawing in order to re-frame and digest found imagery, stories, and personal encounters. concerned with ideas of coexistence with non humanness, and non verbal communication, with ways of accessing the world we live in without conquering or controlling it. Focusing on sensation and feeling, exploring immediate surroundings and materialities. Her work manifests as installation, drawing, sculpture, and moving image.

- 2021 I'm not where I'm supposed to be See Lab Den Haag, Nederland Artists Biba Cole, Alejandra López and Daisy Madden-Wells let you in on a narrativebased show of negligible plot. At See Lab project space they will allow their practices to overlap and seep into each other, both inhabiting, and guiding the viewer through the space via drawing, sculpture, soundtrack and moving image. The central theme of 'sneaking' will loom large, exacerbated by the atmosphere of precarity that currently surrounds us. What it means to sneak, to be a sneak — to be present, absent, or perhaps somewhere in between.
They ask: when you live and move on the cusp of remonstrance, what does it mean to make your way through a space? Is creeping/sneaking/sauntering a choice, or is it foisted upon you by those who would make you unwelcome? Am I creeping, or do you just not want me here? Presenting... a wandering path for creeps and saunterers, exploring the uncanniness of proximity; the closer you get, the more nonsensical things become. I'm not where I'm supposed to be.
