

YAROSLAVA KRUTOVA

When tomato becomes a piece of cake

Yaroslava Krutova's multidimensional approach to her artistry reflects a deep understanding of social dynamics and human emotions. Her fusion of academic knowledge with creative expression results in thought-provoking pieces that challenge conventional norms and perceptions. By delving into the complexities of popular culture and dissecting its impact on society, she unveils the intricacies of manipulation, collective consciousness, and the power dynamics at play. Transitioning to The Hague following the invasion, Yaroslava's collaboration with local artists signifies a powerful exchange of ideas and experiences. Through her art, she seeks to capture the raw emotions and collective resilience of displaced Ukrainians, echoing their struggles and triumphs in the face of adversity. By weaving together diverse narratives and perspectives, she creates a tapestry of shared experiences that resonate with audiences on a profound level. As Yaroslava immerses herself in the new cultural landscape, her work serves as a poignant reflection of the realities of war and displacement. Through storytelling and visual representation, she sheds light on the nuances of alienation and the quest for identity in a world marked by uncertainty and upheaval. With each brushstroke and frame, she invites viewers to contemplate the universal themes of loss, endurance, and the enduring human spirit. Currently, her practice and interests are centred around the impact of the ongoing war and the feeling of grief. Yaroslava's projects are based on the feelings she and millions of people are experiencing now due to the forced rapid change of environment from the familiar to the completely strange and unknown.

2024	Barcelona Indi Film Festival Barcelona, Spanje Short film WHEN TOMETO BECOMES A PIECE OF CAKE www.madriff.org/barciff/ Groep	2023	Pieds de Souper Den Haag, Nederland Experiment was based on the combination of antipodes and tried to understand what has a greater impact on our brain and our perception. Images that are associated with calmness, such as a sunshine, homegrown flowers, warm tea, a cozy bath, and, along with all this, sounds that give us goosebumps, such as the scraping of a fork on a plate, teeth grinding, glass creaking. In the end, the study showed that the impact of conflicting visual and auditory stimuli can vary greatly from person to person. It highlighted the complex relationship between what we see and what we hear, and how our brains interpret this information. Understanding these nuances can shed light on how we process sensory input and how it affects our emotional and cognitive responses. It serves as a reminder that perception is a multifaceted phenomenon that is influenced by a myriad of factors.

Her work is full of complex stories about loneliness and equity, rights, and cultural cliches. There is a subtle mix of intonations: from humour to sorrow, and the hope of finding a place to call home. The work consists of two parts: the first is documenting the artist's everyday life, and the second represents the artist's internal world that exists in parallel with daily routine. Krutova performs as the main character, showing her story of being hosted by a Dutch family. She picks up on physical changes, such as not eating sugar because her hosts would not eat it, cooking different food, and wearing different clothes — in short, completely transforming her habits and self-representation, unavoidably entering an internal conflict. Sound is a key element in the piece, portraying the rapid changing of feelings. It also includes motives from Ukrainian traditional songs referring to the baggage the artist brings to her new context. The project addresses the questions: Is "home" a place or an emotional youtu.be/n05cpttBf60 It is a complex narrative about loneliness and togetherness, kindness and cultural clichés, humor and sorrow, but also about support and a hope to have home again. This project was commissioned by Outsiderland, Amsterdam and supported by FOTODOK, Utrecht and is a collaboration between artists Yaroslava Krutova and Jana Romanova.

youtu.be/losmZreR4ik The title of the work is the first line of a Ukrainian song that has been passed through generations. It appears in a series of paintings, writings, and sound recordings of a diary that Yaroslava was writing since the beginning of the war. In this work, the diary is a method of the translation of consciousness, transition to the Ukrainian language as much as it aims for poetical documentation of the events of the more than 100 days of an ongoing war through the iconographies of protest and intimate moments. The different forms of expression are an attempt to express the movement of translation and share feelings while addressing the untranslatability of different aspects of a language.
- 2022 Pieds de Souper Kyiv, Oekraïne This is a series of experimental tasks in which Yaroslava flirts with the standard perception of pleasant and repulsive. Our brain's reactions are not always fundamentally ours and can be partially imposed by society. Associations are built during life experiences and can also be created during learning. In the first experiment, the game was played with pictures and perception. Yaroslava was provocative and made a series of videos of herself eating food with her feet. The goal was to talk to the audience about disgust and eroticism and the line between them. The reaction was instantaneous - many people found the performance disgusting, but also many fetishists started commenting. Interestingly, this led to social media algorithms banning these videos for inappropriate content, even though they did not contain any nudity.

- 2021 Dyvne Interview Kyiv, Oekraïne youtu.be/8gAcBo1B43c The social experiments conducted through disguised interviews provided a fascinating insight into how public figures react to unexpected situations. As drones flew into the studio and strangers unexpectedly entered to smoke, the participants found themselves in a whirlwind of unusual events. Jugglers and dancers added to the chaos, while delivery people enjoyed snacks and drinks while listening in. Firecrackers and balloons added to the surprise, and even birthday celebrations and impromptu songs were part of the mix. The unexpected departure of the film crew and a sudden change in the host mid-interview further heightened the unpredictability. The experiment's outcomes revealed a spectrum of reactions, with most being positive. It was intriguing to note that individuals used to structured routines were particularly affected by disruptions, with some even leaving in frustration. Those new to public exposure, without prior criticism, displayed heightened responses. Surprisingly, actors among the participants embraced the changes, adapting to and actively participating in the evolving scenarios. Overall, the experiments shed light on how different personalities cope with unexpected challenges, offering valuable insights into human behaviour under pressure.
- 2020 Ukrainian Fashion Week FW 2020-2021 Digest with DT and Yaroslava Krutova Kyiv, Oekraïne youtu.be/YPbWW4ka82Y The Ukrainian Fashion Week as how fashion is focused on the idea of a «sustainable fashion». The word «sustainable» became such a hype in the industry: a lot of people use it to attract attention, but do they know what does it mean? We decided to figure out how much do people who take part in The Fashion Week and attend it know about sustainability. During the whole week we made interviews with founders, speakers, main organisers, famous designers, volunteers and visitors of the shows. The results of this experiment can be clearly divided between the insiders and organisers who mainly considered it a lifestyle and the majority of visitors who only thought about casual usage of natural materials.
